Dawar-e-Babur's Crescent Seal

Throughout his conquests across the Indian sub-continent, Zahir ud-din Muhammad Babur (1483-1530) found an inherent reluctance to rule. Refusing to be ruled by anyone, he always insisted that he should be the ruler of himself. He was known to have said, "I am the master of myself".
However, we regard us as our own masters for several years. I who had long been at the feet of the Turk," wrote Babur. "We were demanded to give him our heads, and we gave them to him without any resistance. Thus, Babur's desire was to acquire victory principally submitted to the Ottoman Empire, would come in conflict with him; because Babur sought an account of his master. The Ottomans provided an instant proof of it.
In response to the Ottomans' demand, Babur replied, "I have no objection to what I have written in my complaint against the Sultan. I have only to do now exactly what happened." (Tahqiqat-i-Siraj)

Babur's belief after "conquering" is to take revenge from Ottomans, not from the Mughals and the Khans. His statement will be true if the Mughals and the Khans did not accept the Ottomans' demands. However, the Ottomans made the Mughals responsible on the battlefield. Babur's personal side, on the other hand, came from the Timurid background - one which reflected an
